Tregole is a substantial 4/5 bedroom detached residence occupying an elevated and commanding position on the outskirts of St Endellion / Trelights, enjoying truly breathtaking panoramic views across rolling countryside to the dramatic North Cornish coastline.

From its privileged setting, the outlook stretches towards Pentire Head and The Rumps, with captivating glimpses across to Polzeath Bay. Set within approximately 6.21 acres of private land, including mature gardens, paddocks, stables and a range of useful outbuildings, this is an exceptionally rare opportunity to acquire a lifestyle property so close to the coast. Having remained in the same ownership for 24 years and situated within the Cornwall Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Tregole offers immense potential and versatility for a buyer to create a truly special coastal home.

A private driveway leads up to the property, opening onto generous parking for multiple vehicles, boat trailers or horseboxes, immediately giving a sense of space and seclusion. Internally, the accommodation is both versatile and well balanced, with up to five bedrooms arranged over two floors. The kitchen/breakfast room forms the heart of the home, complete with a Redfye oil-fired range with LPG gas hobs, integrated dishwasher and fridge, and French doors opening directly onto a sunny patio space perfectly positioned to take in the far-reaching sea views. Adjacent is a practical utility area with side access, storage cupboards and a wet room bathroom, ideal after days spent outdoors.

From the kitchen, a hallway leads to two ground floor bedrooms, the principal room being particularly well proportioned, while the second is currently utilised as a private study and benefits from direct access to the patio and its coastal outlook. A well-sized family bathroom offers a separate bath, separate shower, WC and basin. Double doors open from the kitchen into the first lounge, an inviting and airy space featuring a built-in multi-fuel stove that creates a cosy focal point. From here, stairs rise to the first floor and access is provided to a south-facing sunroom with doors opening onto the private garden. A further hallway leads to an additional ground floor bedroom and a second living room with wood-burning stove and large French doors, enjoying fabulous west-facing views towards the coastline.

Upstairs, two loft-style bedrooms both benefit from ensuite facilities. The principal first-floor bedroom is particularly impressive, and thanks to the property's elevated position, the coastal views become even more expansive and panoramic from this level. Both rooms are filled with natural light and enjoy far-reaching countryside and sea vistas, enhancing the sense of elevation and tranquillity. Fibre broadband is connected to the premises.

Externally, Tregole truly comes into its own. Beyond the parking area are a range of well-maintained outbuildings including a tractor shed, hay barn, workshop (currently also serving as a surf store) and additional storage rooms, many with power connected. The fully fitted stable block provides three loose boxes, a tack room and hardstanding, making the property ideal for equestrian buyers. The surrounding paddocks are a particularly special feature of the property. Both fields are stock-proof with post and rail fencing, have water, and offer separate vehicle access over neighbouring agricultural land to a lane leading down to Trelights and on to Port Quinn. At the far end of the paddocks is a semi-derelict barn which, subject to obtaining the necessary planning consents, could be converted into additional ancillary accommodation. With approximately 6.21 acres in total, it is extremely rare to find this scale of landholding in such close proximity to the coast.

The gardens and patio areas have been carefully positioned to maximise both sunlight and the remarkable views, offering wonderful spaces for entertaining or simply enjoying the peaceful surroundings. Subject to the necessary permissions, the land may also lend itself to seasonal camping or other lifestyle opportunities such as live work, a variety of livestock and horticulture.

Ideally located within easy reach of Port Isaac, Port Quinn, Trebetherick and Rock, Tregole combines privacy and space with convenient access to some of North Cornwall's most sought-after coastal destinations. Properties offering this amount of land, equestrian facilities and panoramic sea views in such a prime setting are exceptionally scarce. This is an exciting opportunity for an incoming purchaser to put their own stamp on what is already a remarkable coastal home.
