Set in a secluded position near the villages of Sticklepath, Belstone and Okehampton, this enchanting country home offers a rare opportunity to enjoy multigenerational living, with the added benefit of privacy, flexibility and space — all within a stone's throw of Dartmoor National Park.

At the heart of the property lies The Farmhouse – a beautifully characterful seven-bedroom home with a mix of thatched and slate roofing, classic fireplaces and handsome flagstone floors. It is a true family home, yet also versatile in layout, with potential to create self-contained sections for older children, grandparents or guests. Accompanying the main residence are two additional dwellings:

- The Threshing Barn is a 2 Storey 1200sqft, wonderfully converted one-bedroom barn with vaulted ceilings, a modern wet room, an open-plan kitchen/diner,/lounge and bedroom area, plus its own private balcony with far-reaching views of Dartmoor — perfect as a separate annexe for a relative or independent teenager.
- The Old Stable Cottage, a characterful three-bedroom home with its own private driveway and lovely period details including stained glass windows, could suit elderly family members, visiting friends, or even be used as a long-term rental for additional income.

Together, the three homes offer multigenerational living at its best — allowing for independence and togetherness in equal measure.

The grounds extend to 4.67 acres of gardens, paddocks and woodland bordered by a meandering stream, creating a haven for children to play, gardeners to explore, or those with equestrian or smallholding interests. There is also a range of stables and outbuildings, offering excellent storage or further development potential (subject to consents).

For those who enjoy entertaining and relaxation, the property features a outdoor swimming pool complete with its own sauna, surrounded by mature planting and hedging for privacy.

The site benefits from its own outdoor kitchen, showers, and toilets, all housed in a sympathetically converted barn that also serves as a social and cooking space — perfect for hosting guests or running a unique glamping experience.

Sustainability is also a key feature here — the property includes a wind turbine that not only helps power the home and reduce energy bills but also contributes a modest additional income stream.

With the wild beauty of Dartmoor National Park on the doorstep, and Okehampton's shops, schools and rail station just a short drive away, this is an ideal location for families wanting a balance of rural life with everyday convenience.
