Possibly the best house in the street, maybe the area? This could be a bold statement but this house is both absolutely stunning and practical at the same time. Extended and renovated, this home now provides a thoughtfully planned combination of retained charm of its 1918 build era and the requirements of the modern buyer.

The entrance hall, what a way to be greeted into this home, with the original black and white tiled floor, restored by the current owner along with the original coving. The hall leads you through to the open plan living dining room. With a bold and striking colour scheme this contemporary room also combines a newly installed cast iron fireplace with working open fire, again keeping the charm of the original build. Ample space in this room to relax, dine and entertain. An open arch leads through to the centre piece of this home. An extended open kitchen with large central island that invites an abundance of light in due to the double doors, large glazing to the side and feature roof glazing.

A separate utility area with enclosed appliances including washing machine, tumble dryer and dishwasher sits off the kitchen along with a wc with period style sanitaryware.

On the first floor are three bedrooms, two generous doubles and a single bedroom. The bathroom now is a contemporary shower room with feature black fittings.

Outside to the front, the house has been repaved, re plastered and new lighting installed. To the rear sits an enclosed south facing garden, newly paved with new fence and is a superb area to unwind or entertain.

The property was bought by my clients in 2021, it underwent serious renovation. The property was stripped right back with all internal walls replastered, the external walls internally insulated. New gas boiler with new radiators, damp proof and woodworm treatment, new double glazed windows and doors including new double doors to the garden, new gutters and fascias, loft insulation to name a few improvements.
